Art Unit: 1742

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over JP 07-90624.

Claims 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Rasmussen et al. (U.S. Patent 6,592,724) or Bose et al. (U.S. Patent 6,605,111).

The prior art discloses thin film shape memory alloy materials which have been separated from whatever supporting materials they had been deposited upon, i.e. the prior art materials include free standing thin film shape memory alloy materials. See the Abstract of JP '624, Rasmussen column 4, lines 1-10, or Bose column 14, lines 22-25. Thus, the prior art materials appear to be physically identical to the products as currently claimed (in the sense of 35 USC 102).

The prior art does not disclose the process steps referred to in product-by-process terms in the instant claims. However, it is well settled that a product-by-process claim defines a product, and that when the prior art discloses a product substantially the same as that being claimed, differing only in the manner by which it is made, the burden falls to applicant to show that any process steps associated therewith result in a product materially different from that disclosed in the prior art. See In re Brown (173 USPQ 685) and In re Fessman (180 USPQ 524). In the present case Applicant has not met this burden. Thus, at a minimum, the claimed products are held to be at best not patentably distinct from those disclosed by JP '624, Rasmussen et al. or Bose et al.

3. In a response filed January 16, 2004, Applicant has provided an explanation as to how one of skill in the art would have been able to carry out the process as defined in the instant claims given the originally filed specification. Thus, the objection to the specification and rejection of the claims under 35 USC 112 has been overcome.

The response also indicates that Applicant believes the invention as claimed in instant claims 8 and 9 to be distinguishable from the applied prior art. To the extent that Applicant's arguments are drawn to JP 173306, Applicant's arguments are accepted, i.e. the illustrations in the '306 reference do not indicate the presence of any shape memory alloy film free standing from a substrate.

Applicant's arguments with respect to Rasmussen, Bose, or JP 90624 do not distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art because Applicant merely asserts that the products of the prior art would be "quite different" from those as claimed or would be "over-strained" products. However, Applicant has not shown any specific distinction in the amount of strain present or in any other aspect of the prior art products as compared to those as defined by the instant claims. Thus, claims 8 and 9 remain rejected as being anticipated by and/or obvious over Rasmussen, Bose, or JP '624.

4. Claims 1-7 are allowable over the prior art of record. The prior art does not disclose or suggest a process which includes all of the steps as defined in independent claims 1 or 6, i.e. does not disclose or suggest depositing a sacrificial layer on a substrate, sputtering an amorphous shape memory alloy and depositing the sputtered alloy as a thin film onto the sacrificial layer, applying a chemical etchant to the sacrificial layer to etch the layer away to leave a free standing thin film, with annealing to crystallize the shape memory alloy before or after etching.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
